Scholarship Deadline Set For Oct. 15

The deadline for Marshall and Fulbright scholarship applications is Oct. 15, according to Robert M. Burgess, faculty adviser for both programs.

The British government awards at least 24 "Marshalls" annually to American students, entitling them to spend two years at a British university of their choice. Four of these "Marshalls" are given to students in the western states.

Under the Fulbright program the U.S. government is offering special opportunities to students for study in Latin America. Many students have studied in Mexico under this program but the number of students going to Venezuela, Guatemala, Bolivia, Ecuador, El Salvador, Dominican Republic, Costa Rica, Nicaragua, Honduras, Panama and Uruguay has been small, according to Mr. Burgess.

A student applying for an award must be a U.S. citizen, have at least a bachelor's degree by the beginning date of the grant, and a proficiency in the language of the host country. Preference is given to candidates who have not studied abroad, are under the age of 35 and are in humanities, history, social sciences, political science and law.

"We usually have between 10 and 15 applicants for the Fulbright award annually," commented Mr. Burgess, "and two or three are accepted. However, we have never received a Marshall award on this campus, and no one has picked up an application for this year."

He said detailed information on both programs, and applications are available from him in the Department of Foreign Languages.

NOTICE

Non-citizens who did not fill in the Annual Census forms at the desk of the foreign student adviser during registration are requested to do so by Friday. The forms are available in LA 212 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. All foreign students must comply with this request.

Johns to Hear Questions at CB

Pres. Robert Johns will answer questions from Central Board members and other students at 7 p.m. at the Board's meeting in the Yellowstone Room of the Lodge.

Reports from ASMSU committees will be heard at the meeting. The most important reports will be from Budget and Finance, Parents' Day and Homecoming committees, according to Bob Liffing, ASMSU president.

'OH DAD, POOR DAD—Mama's Hung You in the Closet and I'm Feelin' So Sad.' Dad will hang there from tonight through Sunday night during the first Masquer production of the season. In a state of shock over the sight of the mothballed mummy are Rosalie, played by Corliss Nickerson (left) and Jonathan, played by Les Hankinson.

Closeted Kin Shocks Son

Madame Rosepettal tried to keep her son's life like she kept her husband—in the closet.

Madame Rosepettal (Georgia Tree) is the dominating character in the Masquers first production of the season, "Oh Dad, Poor Dad..." which will open tonight at 8:15 and play through Sunday in the Masquer Theater.

Madame Rosepettal works her powerful hex on men, devouring them, just as her venus fly trap and pet piranha devour their rubber bands and Siamese cats.

One of her victims, Commodore Roseabove (Larry James), escapes when he discovers her madness.

But Jonathan (Les Hankinson), her closet-kept son, does not rise above this madness. When the mothballs run out and he is exposed to the world, he finds that life "... doesn't smile at all; just hangs there—with his tongue sticking out."

There is no flight for Jonathan. He must stay on the balcony, no doubt mumbling in broken English, "Oh Dad, Poor Dad, Mama's Hung You in the Closet and I'm Feelin' So Sad."

Other members of the cast are Corliss Nickerson (Rosalie), Raymond Bruce (head bellboy) and Daniel Jones, Joseph Turmell, Bruce Buls and Benjamin Sames (all bellboys).

The play, written by Arthur Kopit while he was a student at Harvard, will be directed by Douglas Bankson, associate professor of Drama, with technical direction by Richard H. James, instructor of Drama.

Editor Declares

Majority Vote Rules Policy

Majority vote by an editorial board or decision by the publisher are two ways newspapers follow in deciding endorsement of candidates according to Sam Reynolds, editorial page editor of the Missoulian.

Mr. Reynolds, Tuesday Topics speaker, said Missoulian policy is decided by an editorial board composed of the publisher and four editors. The board voted 5-0 to support Pres. Lyndon Johnson and Gov. Tim Babcock.

The Missoulian will endorse what it considers to be the best of both parties, he said.

Reynolds, in opening his speech, quoted material from Robert U. Brown's article "Shop Talk at Thirty," which appeared in the Sept. 19 issue of Editor and Publisher. According to the article, "... Thirty-one per cent (241 newspapers) of the total responding (777) are editorially supporting Goldwater; 28.6 per cent (222) are supporting Johnson; 40.4 per cent (314) have declared themselves as independent or undecided.

"Not since the E & P polls were started in 1932 when 52 per cent were for Hoover and 40.5 per cent were for Roosevelt have the percentages been so close.

"... Never before has the percentage of fence-sitters and undecideds been so great at this point in the campaign."

When asked why the Missoulian supported Pres. Johnson, Mr.

Reynolds replied that the reason of war and peace was the answer. The Missoulian is afraid of Mr. Goldwater's policies regarding war and peace, he said.

Answering the question "why not Renne," Mr. Reynolds said he thought Renne would come out with a solid program but that so far no program has appeared, just talk of a program and emphasis on "the great train robbery" and the "five B's."

Mr. Reynolds stated that, "While he (Babcock) is not our ideal, he does not deserve to be kicked out."

State GOP Head To Speak Tonight

The Executive Secretary of the Montana Democratic Party will speak at MSU tonight.

"Jumping" Joe Kelly, Montana State College basketball player of the late 1950s, will discuss "Campaign 1964" at 8 p.m. in Room 11 of the Liberal Arts Building.

Kelly received his Master's degree here in Political Science in 1959, his Ph.D. from Washington University at St. Louis in 1962. He was supported by the National Center for Education in Politics in 1963 to study Montana politics.

Montanan New Business Dean

A native Montanan, Prof. James L. Athearn, has returned to MSU to become Dean of the School of Business Administration, effective Sept. 1.

This is contrary to the erroneous statement in last Friday's Kaimin, which said Prof. Donald J. Emblen is acting dean.

Born in Kremlin, Mont., Mr. Athearn attended primary and secondary schools in Havre and Apgar. He received his B.A. degree in business administration in 1947, and his M.A. in 1949, both at MSU.

His first teaching assignment was at MSU as an assistant in economics.

Prior to joining the staff of the University of Florida in 1957, Mr. Athearn taught at Ohio State University.

A chartered life and casualty underwriter, Mr. Athearn was wheat farm manager for Hill County, Mont., and has served as a business consultant for various firms in both Florida and Montana.

Many of his articles have been published in business and insurance journals.

Mr. Athearn is a member of Alpha Kappa Psi and Beta Gamma Sigma, honorary fraternities.

Activities Jamboree Today

Campus groups will participate today in an Activities Jamboree with display booths in the lobby of the Lodge.

Each group will provide information about its activities at the jamboree which is sponsored by the Student Union.

In conjunction with the jamboree, live entertainment will perform from 8 to 10 p.m. in the College Inn, according to Todd Myhre, vice-chairman of the program council.

Campus Sees Changes This Summer

Buildings have vanished, parking lots appeared, and locations of departments altered by changes on campus over the summer.

Cook Hall, a frame building once behind the Forestry Building, was burned, and the area it covered is now a paved parking lot. Offices for graduate forestry students which were in the building were moved to Main Hall. The ROTC uniform stockroom was transferred to the basement of Knowles Hall, and equipment stored in the building by the Physical Plant was absorbed by various warehouses and shops, according to James A. Parker, director of the Physical Plant.

The big, yellow Victorian building just north of Main Hall, now a gravelled parking lot after a spectacular razing with chain saws, served many useful years as the women's gym. Built in the 1890's, it was replaced by the new Women's Center and then converted to house the University TV studios, Audio Visual Centralized Services, the Sentinel offices and the photography equipment of Cyrille Van Duser, Home Town Editor, Publications and News Service. Through its recent active but aging years the building was often nostalgically referred to as "the old ladies' gym."

The Sentinel offices and Cyrille Van Duser's photography equipment were moved in with the family housing units.

The Audio Visual offices, including extensive teaching preparation and technical services, were moved to a much less congested area in the southwest, main floor wing of the library. The new area allows Audio Visual personnel to operate with greater efficiency and freedom, according to Edmund Colby, Centralized Services director.

Most of the television equipment formally housed in the old building has been stored until new facilities are available next year.

Philip J. Hess, director of the Radio and Television Studios, said some of the equipment was re-wired into a school bus purchased by the studios last year. The bus will be a "roaming studio" which probably will be used to televise some campus events over the local cable company and TV station.

He added that the TV production courses have been cancelled for this year but have been replaced with a course designed to teach students the intricacies of operating the new MSU FM station which will soon be on-the-air.

A $150,000 contract was awarded for a new boiler and accessories in a major overhaul of the Heating Plant, according to Mr. Parker.

Green grass is growing on new practice fields which were only dusty parking lots adjacent to the Field House last spring. Mr. Parker expects the fields to be available for some use next spring.

Hot pavement will soon yield to cool lawns and a walking mall in front of the Lodge. This summer the city council permitted the University to barricade University Ave. from the Arthur Ave. intersection to the Lodge. The pavement will be torn up and replaced with grass.

Although this will eliminate some parking space, a new 400-space parking lot has been added near the Field House north of Fifth Street.

There will be more laboratory space in the Chemistry-Pharmacy Building now that the University Bindery has been moved to the basement of the library.

JAMES L. ATHEARN

EDITOR'S NOTE . . .

by Dan Foley

Kaimin Editor

From shaking hands with the President of the United States to watching a one-hit pitching performance by Montana's only major league baseball player, it was an enjoyable weekend for me in Washington, D.C. Along with a representative from each of more than 200 colleges and universities, I was selected to attend a reception at the White House Saturday.

The meeting supposedly was called to enable the President to get to know the thinking of the college-age group. Whether this was accomplished is somewhat doubtful—no one asked me what I was thinking, not that I really expected it. But everyone did have a good time which probably was the real intention anyway.

Most of the students with whom I talked were presidents of their student bodies and nowhere could I find another newspaper editor. This, perhaps, explains what to me was the most disappointing aspect of the evening at the White House—that we weren't asked to take part in a question-and-answer period with the President and three Cabinet members who spoke.

None of the four speakers—LBJ, Dean Rusk, Robert McNamara, or Willard Wirtz made any major pronouncements although they were interesting, and, in the case of Wirtz, humorous speakers.

LBJ Impressive

Lyndon Johnson impresses you as a powerful man; from his slow southern drawl to his massive (even for a Texan) grip, he presents the image of a man who

Sophomore Claims CB at MSU Farce With Little Power

To the Kaimin:

It is my opinion that Student Government on the MSU campus is an out and out farce. I believe this because our student government has no power—not because the members of Central Board are mediocre, as ASMSU is blessed with some tremendous people such as John Ross, Bonnie Bowler and Tom Behan, just to name a few. But what can these people do? The only power CB has is to distribute the money budgeted to ASMSU. This amount is $170,000 and is a big big responsibility, but they have no power outside of themselves. Pres. Johns, Dean Cogswell, and the Board of Regents can legislate anything they choose upon the students.

I say that college students are ready, willing and able to govern themselves.

It is the president's right and duty to build a new Math-Physics Building if he feels the need for one. But it is not the right nor the duty of the president to build a new Student Union Building. This is a matter for the students.

It is the dean's duty to expel me from this University if my grades are unsatisfactory, but hours for girls should be up to the students—not the dean.

It is up to the Board of Regents to fix Pres. Johns' salary, but it shouldn't have the right to fix the age a woman has to be before she can move off campus. This is something the students should figure.

Many MSU students laugh about student government—not because they think government is stupid or ridiculous, but because they realize that CB has no power.

I believe that if the students were actually given the power to govern themselves, we would have a strong, driving interest in student government. Competition for offices would be keen. Elections would become important. And a large percentage of the students would vote instead of the usual 30-40 per cent.

JAMES (Whitey) FAIRLEY

knows what he is doing and how he will do it.

A rather interesting part of the evening was a short conversation with the President's daughter, Lynda Bird, who was hostess for the buffet supper and entertainment which followed the speeches. Lynda is considerably more attractive than she appears to be on TV, rather personable, and she seems to enjoy the spotlight of campaigning for her father.

As with any personality, Lynda gets many interesting letters. She told of one she received a short time ago from a cadet at the U.S. Military Academy. The cadet explained that he had been through the entire chain of command with his problem and that Lynda was his last hope. Could she, he wanted to know, influence her father into seeing that the cadets could charter an airplane to fly to the University of Texas for Saturday's football game.

The volume of her mail usually depends on the amount of campaigning she does for her father, she said. Of late she has been hostess for a number of the famous Texas-style barbecues which have been used as money-raising projects during the campaign. Unfortunately, the President was not trying to raise money Saturday night and we were not treated to a barbecue.

Senate Visit

Friday afternoon I visited Montana Senator Mike Mansfield at the Capitol and watched in fascination for three or four hours as the Senate pushed toward adjournment. For much of the day only a half dozen senators were on the floor until a roll call vote was taken on the foreign aid bill. At that, the Senate was barely able to muster enough votes for a quorum.

McNally Sharp

After arriving at the nation's capital Thursday afternoon, I learned that former Billings American Legion star Dave McNally was scheduled to pitch in Baltimore that night against the Washington Senators.

The 45-minute trip to Baltimore was well worth the time as McNally enjoyed one of the greatest days of his pitching career. He didn't allow a hit until Senator outfielder Don Lock slashed a seventh-inning double that just missed landing in the stands.

Mixing a sharp-breaking curve ball with his famous fast ball, McNally was in complete control all the way allowing only three walks and striking out nine.

Pro Football

Making another trip to Baltimore Sunday, I saw the Baltimore Colts, behind the brilliant passing of Johnny Unitas, move past the Los Angeles Rams into first place in the Western Division of the National Football League with a 35-20 victory over the Rams.

My seat wasn't the best in the park—there was a post which blocked my view of the 40-yard line—and you can't see some of the action as well as you can on TV, but there is nothing like the thrill and excitement of actually being at the park.

If any of you ever get a chance to see a pro game, get a ticket before going to the park. Although I arrived an hour and a quarter before kickoff time, the tickets had been sold out long before. Only the fortune of bumping into someone with two extra tickets enabled me to get into the game, and I didn't see an empty seat anywhere.

After a weekend like that my only reaction was: I didn't wanna come home.

President Clarifies SUB Statement

To the Kaimin:

I was shocked in reading Carl Rieckmann's report of our visit Monday afternoon when he quoted me as saying students would not, in any way, shape or form, decide whether or not they wanted a new Student Union Building.

This is not the statement I made.

I said to Mr. Rieckmann that students were not in any way, shape or form qualified to determine whether or not a Union should be built. It has been my desire and plan all along that students have a voice in what should be in the building and how it should be used. But I have also attempted to protect the students against the criticism they could reasonably expect to receive, regardless of which way they decided, on the construction of a three and a half million dollar building.

I would appreciate it if you would see that this correction is conveyed to the students. Many thanks.

ROBERT JOHNS
MSU President

No Card Playing At Tables in Grill

Students are being asked not to play cards in the grill area of the Student Union. This request has been made for managerial and facility reasons.

Ray Chapman, Student Union director, said if students are playing cards they will likely occupy a table for some time.

This reduces the rate of turnover for Food Service, and usually creates a mess around the table. It also limits the number of people who can use the grill facilities at one time.

Mr. Chapman explained that the College Inn is to be used for small games during the day and if it isn't large enough tables can be added.

The director of the Student Union and Food Services hope the students will endorse this policy.

Backwater Backer Meets Chaucer Reader

from our readers

By LESLIE SHALLENBERGER

(Author's note: This column is based on an actual interview with a recent visitor to the MSU campus. Only the names have been changed to protect the guilty.)

It had started out to be a rather run-of-the-mill Thursday afternoon. I had presented the registrar with my 22 drop-add cards the day before and was feeling very much a part of the routine.

On this particular afternoon I was sitting in an unobtrusive corner of the Lodge, sipping my sixth Dixie cup of coffee and wading through a paper-back version of Chaucer, when a very distinguished-looking gentleman in a muted red sports jacket seated himself next to me.

I smiled my warmest smile at him and hastened back to the chamber scene of "Troilus and Cressida." I had read only two or three lines when I was enveloped by a throng of swooning coeds who were squealing:

"May I have your autograph, Mr. Poltroon?"

"Would you put, 'To Hortense and Smedley with love?'"

"Sign right here on my little finger."

It came to me in flash—it was the famous movie star, Roary Poltroon, seated beside me.

"What brings you to our fair city?" I stammered hesitatingly as the crowd began to thin out.

"Why, I'm riding the campaign trail, ma'am," he grinned.

"That's wonderfully civic-minded of you. Are you by any chance being compensated for your services?" I inquired innocently.

"No, Ma'am. No ma'am," he repeated for emphasis. "I'm just out trying to do my part for Americanism."

"That's very patriotic of you," I continued. "And how do you propose to go about it?"

"I hope to see that my candidate, Berry Backwater, will be seated in the saddle, grasping the reins of government on November 4," he drawled, clutching his cowboy hat over his heart.

"Do you feel that your candidate would provide us with a meaningful foreign policy in the face of the present world situation?" I asked.

"I certainly do. Now a lot of our European allies are mighty unhappy about the possibility of his election, but I have been to Europe four or five times and let me say that this makes me very happy!"

"Well, I'm happy that you're happy," I muttered amiably. "But in which specific areas of foreign policy do you feel that Mr. Backwater could make significant improvements?"

SAW STRANGE SIGHTS

Herodotus, one of the world's first inquiring explorers, boated up the Nile in the fifth century BC, returning to astonished Athenians with strange tales of hippopotamuses.

"Well—uh—I think we have to look at the domestic scene for an answer to that."

"Very well, what improvements would your candidate undertake on the domestic scene?" I asked disarming.

(Promptly) "He could halt the trend of socialism that is threatening America today."

"Socialism is a rather vague label, is it not?"

"So is 'extremism,'" he answered.

"I fully agree with you there. After all, extremism in the pursuit of vice is no virtue," I submitted.

"Now take for instance this War on Poverty . . ." he began.

"Terrible, isn't it?" I broke in. "I've always said that poor people have enough trouble without declaring war on them!"

Mr. Poltroon nodded gravely. As he got up to leave, he must have noted the sardonic smile which flickered across my face, for he placed a fatherly hand on my shoulder and said in a sorrowful voice, "I don't care how you vote, dear, but I hope you stay American!"

Cut to the quick, I rolled up my left sleeve to display my tattoo of "Mother," draped an American flag about my shoulders, and began to wend my way through the Lodge tables, humming the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" as I went.

SX 14—PSK 0
In a show of aerial might, Sigma Chi beat Phi Sigma Kappa, 14-0, in a hotly contested game last night. SX quarterback Gary Minster passed to Brian Johnson in the first quarter and John Elliot in the third for the two SX TD's. Both conversion attempts were good.

SAE 16—SPE 7
SAE quarterback Arne Mysse sparked his team to victory when he hit John Mallory with two TD passes in the first half. Both conversions were good. The remaining two points came when Carl Lawson dumped the SPE quarterback for a safety.

The SPE score came on a fourth quarter pass from Larry Thorn to Doug Ball.

SN 19—ATO 0
Sigma Nu scored two quick touchdowns in the first quarter and added another early in the second period to down ATO 19-0 yesterday. Ed Schrimps, Don Heberly and Jerry Jacobs scored TD's for the winners. The second half was primarily a defensive battle.

TX 12—DSP 0
Scoring in the second and fourth quarters, Theta Chi dumped Delta Sigma Phi 12-0 in an otherwise tight defensive battle. Gary Kanz connected to his brother Larry for a 25-yard scoring effort before the half. He fired to John Bergeron in the final period to end the scoring.

Choppers 19—Rams 0
Chum Roesti tossed a pair of long touchdown passes to George Severs in the first half to spark the Chodda Choppers to a 19-0 win over the Rams. John Badovinic returned an intercepted pass for the Choppers final score.

Packers 23—Romans 0
The Packers, behind the kicking and passing of Bob Scheel, won an easy victory over the Romans yesterday. Scheel passed to Jim Hamilton in the first period, and to Ray Hayes and Bill Tronson in the second. Scheel kicked two of three extra points and a field goal in the fourth quarter.

Wesley—Bees
Wesley was declared the winner over the Bees yesterday when the latter did not field a team.

Intramural Deadline Set Today for Bowling Teams

Rosters for all teams wishing to compete in the men's intramural bowling season must be submitted today in the Men's Gym, according to Ed Chinske, director of the program.

Competition has been tentatively scheduled to begin Saturday, if the rosters and schedule are in order by that time, Chinske said.

OUTSTANDING AGAINST UTAH STATE—Wayne Harrington (left) and Paul Connelly were selected by sports writers as the Lineman and Back-of-the-week for their play against the Aggies Saturday. Harrington, offensive center and defensive linebacker, made numerous tackles and was effective on pass defense. Connelly gained 129 yards and was a bulwark in the defensive secondary until he was hurt.

The Bear Facts

By BILL WALTER

Yanks Appear Probable Winners

With the opening of the World Series today, most of the experts feel that the New York Yankees, partially on the strength of their fifth consecutive appearance in the classic, are the favorites to cop their third Series title in five tries. According to the latest Associated Press release, the Yanks are 6-5 favorites in the opener today and 17-10 choices to take it all.

Phil Linz, who will replace the injured Tony Kubek at shortstop for the Yankees, is rated one of the best utility men in the game and has been hitting well in the stretch drive. If he leaves his famous harmonica in New York, the Yanks should hardly miss Kubek in the short series. Both Ken Boyer and Julian Javier, who were on the doubtful list, have gotten the green light and are expected to see action throughout the Series.

St. Louis appears to have the more consistent hitters, but the Yankees and their perennial slugging lineup are capable of breaking a game wide open at any time. The 310-foot fence in Busch Stadium's right field should make Yankee sluggers feel right at home. Roger Maris and Joe Pepitone lead the New York lefties, joined by switch-hitters Mickey Mantle and Tom Tresh when a right-handed chucker is on the mound for the Cards. Bill White, Lou Brock and Tim McCarver will lead the assault on the short fence for the Redbirds.

Battle of Lefties Today

With Ray Sadecki and Whitey Ford hooking up in a battle of southpaws today, home runs over the right field fence should not be too numerous. But with Mel Stottlemyre and Bob Gibson scheduled to throw tomorrow, anything may happen. With Friday off for travel to New York, it looks like Curt Simmons and Jim Bouton squaring off in Saturday's third game. Both managers have indicated they will begin their three-man rotations again on Sunday, barring unforeseen developments.

Because of the travel day, both Yogi Berra and Johnny Keane will have one member of their big four in the bullpen for relief duty. Al Downing of the Yanks and Roger Craig of the Cards have drawn this assignment. Craig has been a steady if not spectacular performer this year and has spent time in the bullpen before. Downing, who throws hard but tends to be wild at times, should have a major part in containing the predominately right-handed hitting Cards.

Loss of Ramos May Hurt

With Pete Ramos, a late-season bullpen acquisition by the Yankees, ineligible for the series, Berra may lean more heavily on Downing in the tight spots. Ramos arrived after the Sept. 1 deadline, and could have played only if one of the other Yankee pitchers had been hurt in late-season action. If Ford should run into trouble early, he may move aside and give Downing a chance to start the fourth game. The veteran Yankee has been bothered by hip trouble, but seems almost fully recovered.

The Cardinals definitely have the edge in speed, with Lou Brock and Curt Flood heading the list. New York has never made much use of base-stealing as an offensive weapon, though not because of a lack of speed. They hesitate to risk an out on the basepaths with their heavy artillery and ability to come up with the big inning.

Boyer Brothers' Duel

All things considered, it should be an exciting Series, but as sometimes happens, an average ballplayer may emerge as the star of the show. One of the biggest duels will be the head-on clash between the Boyer brothers—Ken of the Cards and Cleto of the Yanks. Though Ken is by far the better hitter, the fielding merits of both have been acclaimed as the best in their respective leagues. It is doubtful that one will so far outshine the other that a comparison can be made, but there is always that chance.

Cubs Have Speed, Talent But No Game Experience

They'll probably be outweighed and lacking experience, but they'll have talent and speed to burn.

That's the opinion of MSU freshman football coach Milt Schwenk, whose Cubs tangle with the Northern Lights of Northern Montana College Oct. 16.

The visitors from Havre will bring the experience of five previous games to Dornblaser Field, as well as a varsity squad that includes members of all classes.

Members of the Montana Collegiate Conference, the Lights are allowed to play freshmen with upperclassmen, while the Cubs are all first-year men.

With seven days of practice remaining before the Cubs initial test, the team will work hard on perfecting its passing attack.

Schwenk will alternate at the quarterback position, using Jim Searles and Norm Quenzler. Searles, 6-1 and 170, is from Missoula. Quenzler hails from Lansing, Ill.

On the lighter side of things, Schwenk said, "Our whole running offense has been introduced and we've got some fine running backs."

Among the men Schwenk tabs as top prospects are tailbacks Willie Jones, Dewey Allen, Denny Skinner and Gary Smith.

At the fullback position, Don Molloy, Rod Lung and Joe Campassi rank high on Schwenk's list.

Soviets Label U.S. Attaches Spies

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
MOSCOW

● The Russians charged yesterday that three U.S. military attaches and a British attaché searched by Russian authorities in the Khabarovsk incident were spying. It was hinted officially they may be barred from the Soviet Union.

The Foreign Ministry announced it rejected protests by the United States and Britain against what the two Western allies Monday called flagrant violations of the attaches' diplomatic status.

CORDOBA, Argentina

● A mob of 3,000 Peronist demonstrators yesterday broke up a motorcade carrying Pres. Charles de Gaulle of France and Pres. Arturo Illia of Argentina through this industrial city.

Their wives, together in one car, were in peril for a time.

First reports said Illia was cut on one hand by flying glass from a broken window of the presidential car. De Gaulle apparently was unharmed.

The mob apparently sought De Gaulle's support for the return of ex-dictator Juan Peron, now living in Spain. Peron was overthrown and exiled nine years ago, but has a lingering influence in Argentina.

WASHINGTON

● Sen. Barry Goldwater declared yesterday that Pres. Johnson already has delegated authority over the use of nuclear weapons to the supreme commander of NATO.

Hurling back the criticism Democrats have leveled against his call for delegated control of tactical nuclear weapons, the Republican presidential nominee added that voters "should be concerned by the spectacle of a president who, as Lyndon Johnson did, would deliberately misstate the facts regarding the awesome question of nuclear responsibility, just to score a political opponent."

The Arizona senator thus opened up in public the charge he has leveled privately—that while the Democrats have campaigned against his stand on nuclear control, Johnson has already taken the step Goldwater recommends.

● The Teamsters Union says its treasury may be virtually drained fighting a suit by members to recover huge legal fees it spent to defend Pres. James R. Hoffa and other union officials in criminal cases.

But the union is insisting that it be named a defendant along with Hoffa and 18 other top officials in the federal court civil suit filed by a group of rank-and-file Teamsters.

Hoffa, Vice-Pres. Harold Gibbons and Sec.-Treas. John F. English admitted authorizing payment of union funds for legal fees in criminal cases, but contended it was legal.

VATICAN CITY

● The Vatican Ecumenical Council yesterday advanced its drive for Christian unity past another milestone, voting approval for Roman Catholics to pray with other Christians.

Although the emphasis was on common prayers to invoke union of Christians, the provision in a council schema on Christian unity opened the way for bishops to permit common worship under limited circumstances.

RALEIGH, N.C.

● Pres. Johnson teamed up in politics with Lady Bird Johnson

last night and, blazing away at Republican Barry Goldwater, declared in tobacco country that "the way to raise farm income is not to launch a farm depression."

Getting into the farm issue for the first time in the campaign, Johnson hooted at what he said are "those who have called for—and I quote—'prompt and final termination of the farm subsidy program.'"

FORT WORTH

● A Republican charged yesterday that the government is building a $2,650,000 office suite in Austin, Tex., for Pres. Johnson.

An Associated Press reporter got into the suite yesterday and was escorted out with orders: "Don't come back up here again without permission from the General Services Administration."

The claim that the suite would cost $2,650,000 came from F. Clifton White, director of the Citizens for Goldwater-Miller.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam

● A U.S. military spokesman said yesterday the Communist Viet Cong apparently has switched the emphasis of its campaign from military to political means, especially since the August riots in Saigon.

Despite new charges by Premier Nguyen Khanh's government that regular North Vietnamese units are moving into South Viet Nam, the spokesman said U.S. authorities have no evidence of significant increase of infiltration.

CAIRO

● The Congo's Premier Moise Tshombe yesterday abandoned his attempt to crash the Conference of Nonaligned Nations after being told he would not be accepted.

From a suburban palace where he had been kept under virtual house arrest through the day, Tshombe announced he would leave immediately for the Congo.

NSA's Professional Qualification Test is your first step towards a uniquely rewarding career

Let us clarify what we mean by a "uniquely rewarding career." If you agree with our definition, then perhaps you should see your College Placement Officer to learn more about the National Security Agency and the Professional Qualification Test to be given Saturday, October 24th. (Passing this test does not commit you in any way, but you must pass it first in order to schedule an on-campus interview with NSA representatives.)

First of all, whatever your major interest—finance & accounting, personnel or business administration, data systems programming, languages or linguistic research—you can make use of your college-acquired capabilities with the National Security Agency, headquarters for secure communications research and development... unusual design refinements in computer & edp systems... cryptologic and related techniques. Your professional growth and earning power expand from the day you join us, without having to wait for years of "experience."

Then, too, you will engage in study and research that will take you well beyond known and accepted boundaries of knowledge. Although NSA is a key research activity within the Department of Defense, it has influence and responsibility of far greater scope... and intellectual associations with leading institutions, laboratories, agencies and consultants. The art and science of secure communications in all its ramifications is utterly without precedent or restriction, and involves programs of national importance.

PROGRAMS OF NATIONAL IMPORTANCE—a thought worth repeating. For what it may be worth to you personally, you'll realize an extra measure of satisfaction from your NSA work, knowing that the results may benefit a lot of people.

In this regard, you'll find, too, that the NSA interchange-of-information leads easily and naturally to a maximum extension of your individual capabilities. You'll find yourself working with people from an amazing range of intellectual sectors—philosophy, psychology, history, international affairs, English, art and music... over 500 of whom have advanced degrees—in a near-academic environment. NSA conducts internal development programs to acquaint you with its new technologies, and encourages advance degree programs at nearby universities.

Now, what of the more pragmatic rewards? Your BA degree makes you eligible to start at $6,050... with regular increases as well as excellent promotion possibilities in your field. As a Federal employee, you are entitled to a number of meaningful benefits—including 13 working days' leave the first year. NSA also offers both aid and encouragement in your pursuit of advance degree education at nearby universities (Maryland and Johns Hopkins in particular are nearby).

One further advantage is NSA's location... midway between Washington and Baltimore in an area of fast-growing business, industry, and research expansion. Take your pick of in-town, suburban, or rural living—and enjoy the proximity to the Chesapeake Bay and ocean resort region.

If you agree-act now

If you are interested in an NSA career, you must apply for the Professional Qualification Test NO LATER THAN WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 14th. Your College Placement Officer has a PQT brochure and application. (You must be a U.S. citizen, and are subject to a character & loyalty check.)
